

Our Location

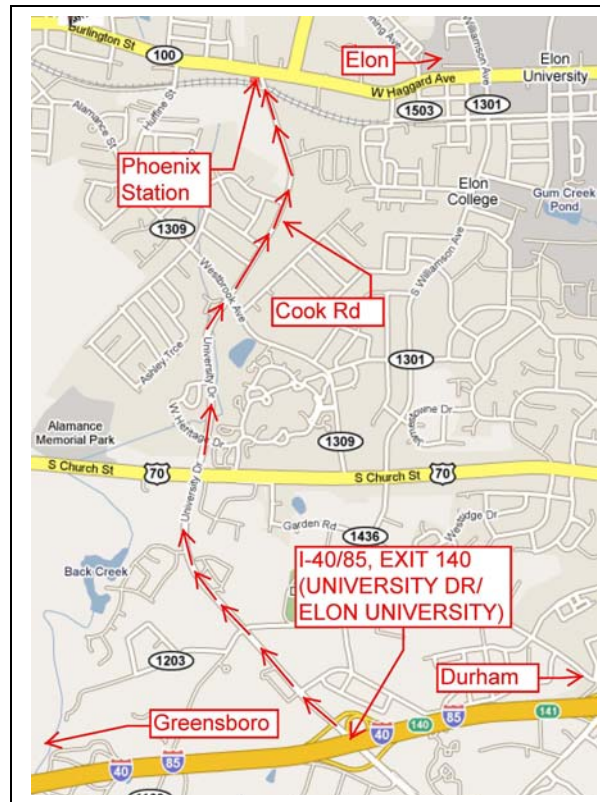

Alamance Consulting Engineers is a small engineering firm located in central North Carolina.

G. Kevin Bengel, P.E., President, has 23 years experience in engineering with the past nine years specializing in plumbing, mechanical and electrical design for commercial buildings. Our projects include retail (strip centers, grocery and big-box stores), multi-family housing, restaurants, manufacturing /warehouse buildings, office buildings and churches.

Our knowledge base is ever expanding and we are dedicated to providing quality design in a timely and cost effective manner. We work closely with architects, contractors and developers/owners to design quality buildings and building systems. Our well-qualified staff of CAD operators and designers strive to provide customers with the level of service required to meet their goals while complying with applicable building codes.

We also feature a large format scanner for archiving our drawings. This also allows us to e-mail sealed drawings to our customers in a user friendly format (e.g. .PDF) thereby saving valuable time when needed and providing clients with digital copies of the drawings.

Exit 140 from 40/85. Travel North on University Drive, which will turn into Cook Road, for 3 miles, crossing the railroad tracks. We are on the corner of Burlington Avenue and Cook Road
